Greetings from Cambridge!

Forgotten Crops Society

Thank you to all those who attended the Forgotten Crops Society Dialogue Series event with Helen Anne Curry to discuss her book Endangered Maize. To watch the event again, please find a link to the recording here.

Our next Forgotten Crops Society Dialogue takes place on Wednesday 18th May at 17.00 (BST) and features Dan Saladino in conversation with Genevieve Renard about his book Eating to Extinction The World's Rarest Foods and Why We Need to Save Them, winner of the Food Book of the Year 2022 award at the Fortnum and Mason Food and Drink Awards. To register please click here.

Coffee Break Seminars

We have a full programme for the rest of the term. The seminars are a relaxed online learning, networking and discussion platform for our food security community. Please do join us at 2pm on the following Fridays:

20 May Robert Beyer (PIK) Turning back the clock on environmental impacts? Relocating global croplands could do that.

27 May Angie Burnett (Plant Sciences) Plants under Stress: Climate Change and Food Security

10 June Emma Wordsworth (History) Learning from the past: Victorian famine relief, a global vision

17 June Clara Ma (Zoology) How can we change the way we think about food?

24 June Min-Yao Jhu (Crop Science Centre) Sustainable Crop Nutrition: a reality?

For joining instructions, please click here. Please contact Francesca if you would like to present your work at a future Seminar.

Events for Early Career Researchers

Cambridge Global Food Security IRC will be holding two events for early career researchers in June; one all about submitting articles to journals, with lots of tips and advice from publishers and authors, and a second on how to apply for funding. We'll be in touch with dates once finalised.
